

Agree

Disagree

Current gas emissions have profoundly intergenerational and international effects

Meat and dairy production and consumption should be regulated

Ways of transport are a matter of ethics

Citizens must implement ethical values into their food choices

The increasing public participation in environmental decisions leads to more environmentally just outcomes

Humans have not right to reduce biodiversity richness and diversity except to satisfy vital needs

Solar photovoltaic panels save natural resources

Shale rocks fracking should be forbidden till the scientific community agrees on the effects

Emission's trading guarantees pollution control